

Elevate, Engage and Enrich your Tech Team

It takes a long time to find and hire the right person, so make sure you invest in bolstering your current workforce.

The Codility Training Suite empowers our clients to upskill, coach, and engage their tech teams.

With the Codility Training Suite, you'll gain access to an exclusive library of training tasks designed for learning and development purposes.

Codility can seamlessly facilitate your half-day competitions, regular training sessions, and any other programs to energize your coders and take your engineering organization to the next level.

Use the Training Suite for:

Full-day or half-day competitions to stir recreational competitiveness amongst your devs and help them let off some steam. They're also great to get different people working together; your events can be less competitive and more mix and mingle.

Regular training sessions for continuous improvements to your engineering organization's problem-solving approach and coding language proficiency.

Bootcamps for junior hires to accelerate their transitions to experienced mid-level employees, eventually graduating to a veteran senior dev level.

Channel for lateral job changes, because career moves aren't always vertical. Empower non-technical staff to learn how to code and work towards technical roles within your organization.

Workshops and brain hacks to keep your workforce engaged and to carry out technical education across departments in mass.

The Training Suite includes:

- Access to the Training task library, covering 4 levels of difficulty.
- Selection of training test templates ready for you to start using.
- Ability to create your own training tests depending on your needs.
